Applause in a Church.

It is not often that our churches ring with applause. But sometimes joy can find no other adequate expression. This was the case in a Kansas church recently, at the first service held in the new house of worship, of which the pastor writes as follows:

"Your notice informing us of the action of the Trustees of the Building Society is received. Let me assure you of our hearty appreciation, and thank the Society for their prompt and generous consideration of our request. The surprise of the receipt of your notice, when read by me from the pulpit of the new church last Sunday morning, was broken by applause which betokened the grateful attitude of the people toward the gift. May God bless the Building Society in its hearty service to the churches that owe so much to it, is my earnest prayer."

A Good Year.

We are very thankful that we are able to report another successful year in our work. It might have been better. But with nearly fifty more contributing churches than the year before, and with more than $5,600 given by churches and individuals than in 1903, we may congratulate ourselves on the advance. We were compelled to carry over into the new year, however, the applications of forty-four churches asking for grants and loans to help build their houses of worship, and of four churches asking parsonage loans. We had not money enough last year to meet their appeals. Let us all do better this year.

Generous Gifts.

It was reported in the public press not long since that a well-known railroad president had given to Archbishop Ireland $1,500,000, with which to build a Roman Catholic Cathedral in St. Paul.

Later came the news that a Massachusetts woman, daughter of a Congregational minister, had with large-hearted generosity given $1,500,000 to build a cathedral church for the Protestant Episcopal Church in Boston.

More recently still, it is announced that the Hon. Levi P. Morton, ex-Vice-President of the United States, has, with his wife, given $650,000 to complete the choir of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine (Episcopal) in New York, and Mr. John Jacob Astor has given $100,000 toward the same cause.

Mr. Andrew Carnegie is not as lavish in his gifts to churches, although a considerable number are rejoicing in the organs he has donated; but his gifts to libraries are very large in the aggregate, and Mr. Horace White announced at the recent dedication of the new library at Beloit College that twelve hundred libraries had been erected by Mr. Carnegie's generosity, and that he had put into them $39,000,000.

It is most encouraging to note these proofs that rich men are counting their wealth as a sacred trust of which they are stewards, and that they feel bound to use the money they have gathered to better and bless the world. We trust such examples will be contagious. If some rich man will place in our treasury a million dollars, we will use it, not to build a single superb cathedral, but a thousand churches in various parts of our country, which will probably reach over half a million people a year with the Gospel.

Who speaks first for this privilege?

Systematic Beneficence.

We are glad to welcome as a contributor to the QUARTERLY in this number the Congregational Secretary for Systematic Beneficence, the Rev. Charles Addison Northrop, and to bid him Godspeed in his work. He represents not one, but all of our denominational benevolences, and he aims to awaken in the churches a new interest in each one of these causes, and to show the best method of sustaining and advancing them. His long and successful pastorate in Norwich, Conn., has admirably fitted him for this service, to which he has given especial study. The Advisory Committee on this subject, which he represents in the field, is the Committee of Nine, as follows: Drs. S. B. Capen and W. H. Davis, of the "American Board;" Dr. W. L. Phillips and Mr. E. P. Lyon, of the Congregational Home Missionary Society; Drs. W. H. Ward and W. W. McLane, of the American Missionary Association; Dr. L. C. Warner, of the Congregational Church-Building Society, and Dr. Willard Scott, of the Congregational Sunday-school and Publishing Society: the late Dr. W. H. Willcox was the representative of the Congregational Education Society up to the time of his death.

The Fifty-second Annual Meeting

OF THE

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH-BUILDING SOCIETY.

The Fifty-second Annual Meeting of the Congregational Church-Building Society was held January 12th, 1905, at half-past three o'clock in the afternoon, in the United Charities Building, 105 East Twenty-second Street, New York City.

The President of the Society, Lucien C. Warner, LL.D., occupied the chair.

Prayer was offered by the Rev. William A. Rice, D.D.

The chairman appointed as a Nominating Committee Mr. Sayres Hadley, Rev. Charles H. Taintor, D.D., and Mr. Henry A. Hall.

The minutes of the last annual meeting were read and approved.

Secretary Charles H. Richards then read the Fifty-second Annual Report of the Board of Trustees of the Congregational Church-Building Society, which was accepted and ordered placed on file and printed in the CHURCH-BUILDING QUARTERLY.

The reports of the Field Secretaries, Rev. George A. Hood, Field Secretary for New England, and Rev. H. H. Wikoff, Field Secretary for the Pacific District, were then presented and ordered printed in the QUARTERLY. Rev. Charles H. Taintor, D.D., Field Secretary for the Interior, was present and offered in person a report of his work; and his report and that of Mrs. Charles H. Taintor, Assistant Field Secretary, were accepted and ordered printed in the QUARTERLY.

The Treasurer's report for 1904 was read by Mr. Charles E. Hope, and accepted and ordered placed on file and printed in the QUARTERLY. The matter of the form of future reports was referred to the President and Treasurer.

The Nominating Committee made its report, and the following officers and trustees were elected:

President.

DR. LUCIEN C. WARNER, LL.D.

Vice-Presidents.

MR. AARON B. MEAD, Chicago, Ill.
MR. ELBRIDGE TORREY, Boston, Mass.
HON. D. C. BELL, Minneapolis, Minn.
MR. C. D. WOOD, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Recording Secretary,

CHARLES H. RICHARDS.

Trustees.

For three years—Mr. W. J. Hunt, Mr. John D. Cutter, Mr. Dyer B. Holmes, W. W. Leete, D.D., and Rev. William Dana Street.

For one year—To complete the unexpired term of Mr. George S. Hickok, Rev. Frederick Lynch.

An invitation from Whitman College and the First Congregational Church of Walla Walla, Wash., to the Congregational Church-Building Society to hold its meeting this year at Walla Walla in conjunction with the other home societies was presented. It was voted that the thanks of the Society be sent to Whitman College and the First Congregational Church of Walla Walla for this cordial invitation, but in view of the many questions involved in planning a meeting at that point, which are now being considered by the committees of the home societies in conference with each other, that this matter be referred to the Board of Trustees.

The minutes of the meeting were then read and approved, and after prayer by the Rev. Charles C. Creegan, D.D., the Society adjourned.

CHARLES H. RICHARDS, Recording Secretary.

Fifty-second Annual Report

OF THE

BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH-BUILDING SOCIETY.

PRESENTED BY SECRETARY CHARLES H. RICHARDS.

We have had another year crowded with incessant work for the advancement of the Kingdom of our Master. Rarely have the appeals for our aid been so numerous and urgent. They have poured in upon us faster than we could take care of them, and they have asked us often in a single month for eight or ten times as much as we could secure for appropriation. This is a good sign. It would seem to indicate new life and vigor in the churches. They are developing their work with new energy, and they see that a first essential in that enlarging life is a house of worship. Hence their cry to us for the help imperatively needed to secure it.

We have heard that cry. It has come to us with an intensity that has deeply touched us, for we know that in many cases the success or even the very life of the appealing churches depends on our aid.

The giving churches, however, do not seem to have heard that cry very distinctly. They have been too drowsy to recognize it, or be stirred by it. Some, indeed, have kept themselves well informed and have given to the work generously and splendidly. But many of them have had but a languid interest in the cause, and have sent a disproportionately small offering for the work. More churches than usual have contributed, and they have given about the usual amount; but they have not waked up as we could wish to the great need, and many a struggling church has been disappointed and distressed because of it.

Nevertheless, we have had a prosperous year, if the large volume of work made possible by the actual receipts is taken into account.

If we had twice as much money, we could have done twice as much good as church life-savers and Kingdom promoters. We have been grateful that we have been able to build 120 churches (more than two a week), and 45 parsonages (one every eight days). This brings up the record of our fifty-two years work to 3,603 churches and 920 parsonages, or a total of 4,523 buildings for church purposes.

The Receipts of the Year.

During 1904 contributions for our work came from 3,075 churches, a gain of 49 over the preceding year. They have come from every State and territory except our new possessions. We regret to say that 2,826 churches sent not a single penny to our treasury to help their struggling sister churches in their hour of need. Many individual gifts were also received. The wise-hearted women lent generous assistance and in several States furnished the entire amount needed to help build one or more churches. The Sunday-schools and Christian Endeavorers have also been building their own churches. The total receipts from these sources has been $95,753.60. This is a gain of $5,660.41, as compared with the preceding year.

The legacy account shows a strange shrinkage, as in the other benevolent societies. Our receipts from this source have diminished from $78,574 in 1902 and $22,350,83 in 1903 to $15,-717.16 in 1904; thus being in the latter year $6,633.67 less than in the preceding year. Our receipts from the repayment of loans also show a slight apparent shrinkage, due to the fact that one large loan of nearly $10,000 was paid in full in 1903, and no such large single payment was made in the year just closed.

[illegible]ite of these items, however, our total receipts are nearly [illegible] the preceding year, being $217,100.46 from all [illegible] income is well beyond the $200,000 mark, as it has been each year for the past six years. It is worthy of note that 34 church accounts and 30 parsonage accounts have been closed in 1904, the full amount of our aid having been repaid to our Treasury.

Summary of the Year's Work.

The magnitude of our work during the past year may be judged from the following statements:

Applications before our Board in 1904:

21	applications for grants.....	calling for	$30,350.00
12	" " church loans.....	" "	18,900,00
18	" " parsonage loans.....	" "	17,750.00

Received in 1904:

115	applications for grants	calling for	97,360.00
76	" " church loans	" "	118,950.00
48	" " parsonage loans	" "	51,025.00
Total applications for aid, 290		calling for	$334,335.00

Forty of the above applications were from churches which asked both grant and loan to aid in building.

In response to these appeals the following appropriations were voted:

Grants voted to 91 churches	amounting to	$64,310.00
Church loans voted to 65 churches	" "	97,300.00
Parsonage loans voted to 56 churches	" "	33,550.00
Total appropriations voted, 212	amounting to	$195,160.00

The payment of these pledges is usually not made for some time after these amounts are voted, inasmuch as we must receive first the certificate of completion and then a mortgage for the security of the money. When our check goes forward it pays last bills upon the church or parsonage and leaves it entirely free from debt. We have, therefore, made our payments chiefly upon the appropriations made in the last half of the preceding year or the first half of 1904.

APPROPRIATIONS PAID IN 1904.

Grants paid to 96 churches	amounting to	$61,805.00
Church loans paid to 51 churches	" "	92,890.90
Parsonage loans paid to 45 churches	" "	23,875.00
Total grants and loans paid, 192	amounting to	$178,570.00

Twenty-nine of the above churches received both grants and loans. Two other churches received "specials" alone to the amount of $400, which are protected under our grant mortgages. The total amount of "specials" coming under our protection in 1904 is $24,847.17, making a total thus protected of $203,417.17. In addition we have paid to churches specially designated by donors $1,776.56, much of which is also protected by our mortgages.

The churches which we have aided have been in thirty-three States and Territories: 9 in New England, 14 in the Middle Atlantic States, 15 in the South, 105 in the Middle West and 22 on the Pacific Coast, as follows:

Houses of worship: Alabama, District of Columbia, Florida, Indiana, Indian Territory, Montana, New Jersey, Oregon and Rhode Island, one each; Arizona, North Carolina, Pennsylvania and South Dakota, two each; California, Idaho, Massachusetts and Texas, three each; Maine, Missouri, Washington and Wisconsin, four each; Colorado, Georgia, Illinois and North Dakota, five each; Kansas and Oklahoma, six each; Minnesota, seven; New York and Nebraska, eight each; Michigan, nine; Iowa, eleven.

Parsonages: California, Georgia, Idaho, Indiana, Indian Territory, Maine, Minnesota, Montana and North Dakota, one each; Arizona, Louisiana, Michigan, Nebraska, New York and Wisconsin, two each; Colorado, Illinois, Iowa, Oklahoma and South Dakota, three each; Washington, nine.

The Problems of the Year.

Some of the problems that perplex others do not disturb us. We have no debt. Our work is of such a character that we never need to have one. We have no ministers whom we are pledged to support, no schools we are bound to sustain, no institutions demanding constant outlay and compelling us to borrow if the needed money is not in our treasury. Societies that are so situated deserve, not our criticism, but our sympathy. If they did not incur a debt and keep their pledges and sustain the work the churches have committed to their care, even though the churches fail to send the funds, widespread distress and disaster would result. They must borrow until the appeal can be sent out to the churches, who are bound to come to their relief.

But no such necessity is laid upon us. We pledge no money except what we have in hand or in sight. When we have promised a grant or loan, we hold in reserve the money promised till the church that asked it can complete its building and take the cash. The large balance which we carry over from year to year is not a big fund which we can draw upon and vote if we choose; it has all been voted away, and is simply held in our treasury till the churches to which it is pledged can take it.

Our problems are different, but they are nevertheless perplexing at times. How can we best recover from extinct churches the money which has been put into them by us, and by others who have made us trustees to protect their gifts? The Home Missionary superintendents report 78 such churches, which were once promising and fairly prosperous, but which have shrunken away till the field ought to be abandoned and the property disposed of.

How can we get delinquent churches to fulfill their obligations to us, so that we may have means enough to help the other churches in need? Every church receiving a grant from us promises on acceptance of our assistance to send us an annual offering, on the principle which Christ laid down, "Freely ye have received, freely give"; and every church receiving a loan, whether for the church building or parsonage, promises a similar annual contribution, and, in addition, to send each year an instalment of the loan as agreed at the time of receiving it, until it is entirely repaid. We are glad to say that many send these promptly and regularly as promised. Some have been crippled and paralyzed by losses and changed conditions, and are temporarily unable to fulfill their promises; when they make clear to us their actual distress and need, and ask a readjustment of the terms of payment, the Board meets them more than half way. Others, from forgetfulness, or negligence, or indifference, or unwillingness to make any special effort or sacrifice, or desiring to spend the money for local improvement, seem to ignore their obligations and promises which they so eagerly made in order to obtain our aid. How to arouse their consciences, stir them to earnest effort, and open their pocketbooks, while at the same time we assure them of our friendly and sympathetic regard, is one of our problems.

How can we best co-operate with City Missionary Societies? We have helped to build churches in nearly every considerable city in our country, and are being urgently appealed to for our assistance in many large cities. But the City Missionary Societies are to a large extent Church-Building Societies, raising money for that purpose, and thereby seriously diminishing the contributions which many large churches formerly sent to our treasury. How much ought we to appropriate to churches largely aided by them? And how can we ensure the protection of all the Congregational money given to church-building in addition to that which comes from our treasury; and how can we otherwise most effectively and wisely co-operate with these local church-building societies?

How can we help the churches which we aid to solve the local problems which disturb them? These arise when churches cannot get an absolute title to a lot, as when all the land is owned by a great corporation and only conditionally leased; or when unexpected and crippling burdens fall upon churches which we have aided; or when a strong faction in the church swings it out of the denomination.

Such problems as these are constantly engaging our attention, and they are sometimes quite difficult of solution. For while we desire to be most generous to the churches, and accommodate ourselves as far as possible to their needs and desires, we are compelled to remember that we are guardians of a sacred trust in our care of the funds committed to our charge, and we must see to it that they are neither squandered nor lost by unbusinesslike methods or unwise changes. It is generally agreed that by our present methods, developed and adopted after long experience, the funds we care for are more perfectly protected than by any other method that has ever been tried.

Our Working Force.

During the year just closed only a single change has occurred in our Board of Trustees. On account of prolonged illness, Mr. George S. Hickok, whose business experience and sound judgment made his counsels of great value, resigned from the Board. His pastor, the Rev. Frederick Lynch, was elected to fill the place thus made vacant. Since that time Mr. Hickok has been called from earth, and the Board has spread upon its records a tribute to his worth and usefulness.

When we speak of our working force, it is not always understood how large and varied it is. There is first the constituent membership of the Society. This is spoken of in our Constitution as a "voluntary association of individuals," and it is composed of our giving constituency; that is, it is composed of Life Members, made such by the payment of fifty dollars; and Annual Members, made such by the payment of five dollars. Any church can name Life or Annual Members, in proportion to the above amounts, when sending its offering to our treasury. If all the churches had acted on this privilege this year, we should have enrolled about 14,000 Annual Members, directly representative of the churches, in addition to our 1,423 Life Members. They are all entitled to vote at the business meeting of the Society.

The work in its details is committed to the care of the Board of Trustees. The fifteen members of this Board well represent the churches of the States easily accessible, so that attendance at the meetings is possible. There are two from Connecticut, two from Pennsylvania, four from New Jersey, three from Brooklyn and four from New York City. The churches of the country owe a great debt of gratitude to these business men and ministers, who turn aside from their engrossing duties each month to give the benefit of their large experience and wise judgment to this important missionary work.

The President and the Counsel of the Society are both members of this Board.

The office force is no larger to-day than it has been for many years, although the work has more than quadrupled in twenty-two years. It really needs more assistance to do the work properly, but in the determination to keep down expenses to the lowest limit, we manage to get along without increasing the force.

To the Secretary falls the task of conducting the correspondence of his office, preparing the docket for the Board, editing the QUARTERLY and the portion of Congregational Work which pertains to church building, arranging for meetings and such other matters as may need his attention. He cannot be an idler. He has visited in the interest of the Society's work during the past year fifteen States and the District of Columbia, and his jonrneys have extended from Maine to Colorado.

The Treasurer has been kept incessantly busy, inspecting papers sent from the churches about to receive our aid, to make sure that no serious flaws will imperil the money placed therein; safeguarding the funds held in reserve with which to redeem our pledges to churches to which grants or loans have been voted; disbursing the money when all conditions have been met; collecting instalments of loans; looking after insurance, and reminding the aided churches to send to our treasury the promised annual contribution.

The two assistants in the office are also kept constantly busy with the varied details of the work.

Our three Field Secretaries are the assistants of the home office in three great sections of the country—New England, the Interior, and the Pacific Coast. Nor must we omit from the list Mrs. Taintor, who is her husband's assistant, and who has rendered such splendid assistance in developing our Parsonage Fund.

The aid rendered by these hardworking representatives of our work in the field has done much to stimulate interest in the churches and increase our receipts. Their annual reports, herewith presented, show that arduous and successful work has been done.

In addition, we have the hearty co-operation of an army of helpers who cheerfully render voluntary service without remuneration, which binds our Society into very close relations with the several States. We have forty State Secretaries (besides our Field Secretaries) and two hundred and forty local correspondents in the conferences and associations of the States, who give us information and keep the churches posted as to our work. And we are also in constant correspondence with fifteen Secretaries of State Home Missionary Societies, and twenty-three Home Missionary Superintendents, who, with our State Secretaries and local correspondents, must endorse all applications for our aid.

Thus we have a working force of more than three hundred and forty persons actively co-operating in this work of church and parsonage building; and if we take into account the entire volume of work done, the receipts and disbursements, and the guardianship of funds held for the redemption of our pledges and care of our annuity fund, a total amount of more than $385,000, the expenses of our work are less than six and a half per cent. If we consider the total disbursements ($238,180), the ratio of expense is less than ten and a half per cent. Compared with the receipts, the ratio of expense is about eleven and a half per cent.

Our Des Moines Meeting.

We must not close this annual report without making mention of the meeting held at Des Moines in October, in connection with the meeting of the National Council. Though only one hour and a half was granted to us, it was a very impressive and effective meeting. Never before have we had an opportunity to present our work to so large and representative an audience. Our President, Dr. Warner, was in the chair and made an address. Other papers and addresses were made by Secretary Richards, Field Secretary Taintor and the Rev. Drs. Frank T. Bayley, S. M. Newman and Philip S. Moxom. Much interest was manifested in the meeting by the large congregation representative of our churches throughout the entire country.

Twenty-first Annual Report of Rev. C. H. Taintor, D.D.

FIELD SECRETARY FOR THE INTERIOR DISTRICT.

(Including the report of Mrs. C. H. Taintor, Assistant Field Secretary).

This report finishes twenty-one years of service as Field Secretary of the Congregational Church-Building Society. Twenty-one years ago I left the pastorate of the Congregational Church, Milford, Hillsborough County, New Hampshire, to take the position as Field Secretary for the then-called "American Congregational Union," now by the grace of God the "Congregational Church-Building Society." For five years I was the only field representative, and covered the entire country in my services, my headquarters being Chicago, Illinois. The enlargement of the work made it seem necessary to appoint a Field Secretary for New England, and later for the Pacific Coast. These appointments created an Interior District, which has been designated as the Middle West. It includes fifteen States and one Territory—Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Missouri, Colorado and Wyoming. The service of the past year has been uniform with that of previous years. This comprises the labor of visiting every State and Territorial association; addressing the public bodies of churches assembled in their annual and local convention or asociation; sermons, missionary addresses, lectures, appeals for funds, together with an enormous correspondence, has made for the Field Secretary a very busy and strenuous life.

In the spring the Society issued a Church-Building Number of The Advance. The articles comprising this number were carefully prepared by special contributors who are experts on the topic of which they wrote. This number was also illustrated by specially prepared cuts, and was a most valuable assistant in educating and stimulating churches regarding the work of church and parsonage building. The value of this Advance Church-Building Number cannot be immediately estimated. Such information, creates an impression which has already been felt in letters from readers, heartily commending the number and promising immediate financial recognition. This Advance number has been one of the unusual features of the work in the Interior District this year. I most heartily commend this plan to be used by our Society at rare intervals.

Another unusual event this year was the meeting of the National Council at Des Moines, Iowa, in October. Secretary Richards fully covers the event in his report, but I am more and more impressed with the wonderful care and skill displayed by the committee of arrangements of Plymouth Church, Des Moines, Iowa. It was a marvelous exhibition of thought and care and skill. The brief space of this report will not permit such a full commendatory opinion of all these arrangements as the merits of the case justify. The presentation of the Church-Building Society awakened loud, enthusiastic, commendatory remarks. The showing that in the Interior District, containing a population of 24,000,000 people, with a list of 2,699 Congregational church buildings, the Congregational Church-Building Society has stood behind these edifices with 2,513 grants and 752 parsonages, exhibiting a record of 3,265 buildings, demonstrated to the astonishment of the audience that without the Church-Building Society our system of agencies for Christian work is incomplete. It clearly demonstrated the fact that the church and parsonage building work is no longer a minor society, but its praises should be sung in a major key.

The inspiration of the field work is found in the large number of consecrated, sympathetic men and women who believe in the extension of the Lord's Kingdom. Many of the individual gifts reported by the Treasurer come from those who believe that there is no work more important than the providing of a place for the breaking of the Bread of Life. The receipts for this district are larger than ever before, and yet I have noticed for several years that the receipts to this and other Boards have dropped about 20 per cent., which I account for by the increase in the cost of living. Notwithstanding all the cry about prosperity, good times, etc., the cost of living for the ordinary salaried person has increased 20 per cent., and the ordinary person has not as much money now as he had in days gone by. I have noticed that this is the average drop in church offerings in response to an appeal. This shrinkage shows in the annual reports of the Treasurer of our Society. The people have not the money to give. I do not think that there is any lack of consecration or lack of intelligence, but under existing economic conditions in the business world, money is kept from the common people, and they have less to send for our benevolent work.

The Society in the Interior District has made a splendid showing. Its wise and careful administration is everywhere commended. The Congregational Church-Building Society is a Gibraltar Rock of security, because it is founded on the "Rock of Ages."

Mrs. C. H. Taintor, Assistant Field Secretary for the Interior District, has served the Society faithfully as an assistant to her husband, Rev. C. H. Taintor. Her work has been to supply, to fill out, and to fill in. Her services have not been without financial returns to the Society. A few years ago Mrs. Taintor went to Ann Arbor, Mich., the seat of the State University. It was with great hesitation she went to this church, and it was with great timidity she spoke to the congregation, which included so many professors of the University, as also President Angell. Mr. Ford was in the congregation, and, after listening to the address, went on Monday to a lawyer and added $5,000 in a codicil to his will. The legacy has since been paid. Scores of cases of the influence of her addresses are known to the Society, and her work has always been of a supplemental character. Mrs. Taintor is a most effective letter writer. She addresses a great many Women's Missionary meetings throughout the interior States. I wish to record that her services have been most valuable. Tens of thousands of dollars have come to the treasury of this Society through her quiet and earnest presentation. At this time (Jan. 17th) Mrs. Taintor is addressing a large missionary meeting of the Chicago Association. It is with most profound gratitude to our Heavenly Father that we close the record of so many years of continual service.

"It is not keeping expenses down, but keeping faith and enthusiasm up, that gives a clear balance sheet."—Robert Moffatt.

And not be a whit the worse;
It never was loving that emptied the heart,
Nor giving that emptied the purse."

Sixteenth Annual Report of Rev. George A. Hood.

FIELD SECRETARY FOR NEW ENGLAND.

Three years ago the National Council recommended that there be a Committee on Beneficence in every State and in every Conference, and special effort in every church. That committee suggested nothing new to the Congregational Church-Building Society, which for more than twenty years has had a special Secretary in every State and a Conference Correspondent in every Conference. Perhaps the special feature of the work of 1904 has been that Secretary Richards began an effort to have a representative in every church through New England, which, if successful here, would be extended to the rest of the country, and thus complete the National Council scheme for thorough work. The pastors have highly praised the plan; they say it is a good idea; a number are applying it to all the societies. Of course there are some objections, that would be natural; but the most frequent one among the smaller churches is that there is no one fitted to be such a leader. This shows the necessity of the training classes which Secretaries Shelton of the Home Missionary Society and Hicks of the American Board are establishing among the young people of the churches.

Influential men, and some women, have been secured as our representatives in the local churches—a judge, several bankers, lawyers and merchants. Some of the wealthy people are just as much interested, and even more so, because they can help in a larger way than if they had only moderate means for our Congregational activities. One lady has sent for information to interest her wealthy friends. One man, who is also a church clerk, asks for literature to "mail to likely persons before the collection with a personal request to read it," and for concert exercises; says he will also condense some of the material for the pastor to use when the offering is taken. The Congregational denomination would have a much larger share in the work of bringing the world to Christ if each department of its work had friends like these in every church.

Another feature of this year's work is that the demand for large aid for New England from the Church-Building Society still continues. There has been voted or paid to churches in Maine during the last two years $7,800, while the contributions from that State for the two years ending January, 1904, were $2,027.27, with a legacy of $5,000 of which only the interest could be used. Massachusetts for four previous years has asked for as much as it has given us, and this year there have been applications on the docket for nearly as much, and including the calls which had to be declined, it has asked for $10,000 more than was received from the State.

A two weeks' series of meetings in Maine with all the Societies has recently closed, and the fruits, of course, are yet to appear.

The work of the year sums up 113 addresses for the Congregational Church-Building Society in 85 churches and in 10 Conferences, with 14 other addresses, six sermons, and special interviews with 106 persons in the interests of the work. This has involved 17,563 miles of travel.

Tenth Annual Report of Rev. H. H. Wikoff.

FIELD SECRETARY FOR THE PACIFIC DISTRICT.

Ten years, lacking two months, it has been mine to represent the Building Society in this far-away western section of our country, and hence it is fitting that this report be somewhat of a resumé of the decade's work.

When appointed, this field included the three Coast States, with Nevada, but since has been enlarged to embrace all this side of the Rocky Mountains—Alaska and Montana included. A large territory this, and one requiring extensive travel in order to become thoroughly acquainted therewith. Such acquaintance is mine—Alaska excepted—and it is a pleasure to bear witness to the fine missionary work which has been done in planting churches—many of them in strategic centers—and also to the representative people found in sympathy with our Congregational movement, especially in some of the more remote places; thus giving promise of growth and of social, political and religious influence in these new and developing commonwealths.

Gratifying, too, is it to record that in this decade's experience little, if anything, has occurred to mar the Christian fellowship, even though at times the Board's representative has felt called upon to be somewhat insistent as to the obligations of the churches to the Society, without whose help many a plant would not now be standing. Congregationalists may well take pride in the men to whom is committed the pioneer work of these newer States, and rest assured able and wise and indefatigable workers are putting forth strenuous efforts to advance the Kingdom as committed to those of the Pilgrim faith.

Although so extensive in area, the Congregational forces of this field are by no means great in numbers. We have about five hundred churches, one-twelfth of all those given in the Year Book; about thirty-five thousand enrolled members, a trifle more than one-twelfth of the denominational family. To come in contact with these, your representative in this decade of work has made eight hundred visits to churches and given eight hundred and forty-two addresses. He has made six hundred and fifty personal calls and traveled one hundred and seventy thousand miles.

The receipts of his office have grown from one hundred and fifty dollars a month to one thousand dollars and more, while the full returns from the field—some being sent directly to New York — have increased from slightly more than nine thousand to twenty-two thousand per annum—an amount scarcely, if at all, exceeded by any of the other benevolent societies. In ten years the Society has increased the number of churches built from two hundred and fifty-one to four hundred and sixty-five; parsonages from fifty-two to one hundred and forty.

The money invested by the Board in this time has been in round numbers fully one-quarter of a million, while the district has provided thereof one hundred and sixty thousand—an average of nearly fifty cents per resident member each year. Contributing churches meanwhile have increased from one hundred and forty-five to three hundred, fully three-fifths of all our churches annually taking part in this good work. When it is remembered that this is pre-eminently a missionary field, many of our churches being but infants in swaddling clothes, we can but rejoice that so many respond to our appeals and that the returns aggregate such a large sum.

Cheered thus by what has been, your representative cannot be other than optimistic as he peers into the future. Human foresight cannot forecast all that is to be on this western slope, but evidence is sufficient to convince any fair-minded person that these commonwealths, some of them so young, are to become mighty in numbers and in influence upon the nation and the world. Forces of evil, already here, will dominate unless those commissioned of God continue the aggressive spirit thus far manifested. This is no time to call a halt. "Speak to the children of Israel that they go forward." Congregationalists, hearing this, have obeyed, are obeying, will obey. But our obedience will be partial only, unless in our sending men—equipped as we equip them intellectually and spiritually—we assure them also that wherever and whenever the work demands assistance in providing the House of the Lord, the Building Society will be glad to respond promptly and generously. Such ought to be the latter's ability. Such will be when the entire fellowship co-operate. That there may be no lack on the part of the Pacific District, your representative promises his best endeavors.

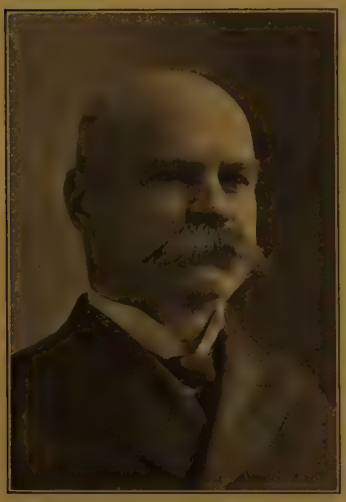
A New Club Rate.

In response to numerous requests for a subscription rate for the four homeland magazines, the editors have fixed upon a rate of $1.00 for The Home Missionary, The American Missionary, THE CHURCH-BUILDING QUARTERLY and The Pigrim Missionary. This rate is for a single subscription to the four magazines. To any one raising a club of ten, a commission of twenty per cent. on each subscription will be paid. Here is an opportunity for enterprising boys and girls who would like to help in the circulation of missionary news, and at the same time make a little money for their own needs. A little judicious effort, we believe, will add greatly to the number of readers of our homeland missionary literature. Subscriptions, accompanied with accurate lists of names and post-office addresses, may be sent to the headquarters of either of these magazines. The address of THE CHURCH-BUILDING QUARTERLY is Room 820, 105 East 22d St., New York City. That of The Home Missionary is 801, and that of The American Missionary is Room 811 in the same building. The address of The Pilgrim Missionary is Congregational House, Boston, Mass. Sample copies will be sent from each office on application of the solicitor.

From Foundation to Top-Stone: Greeting.

By Rev. Charles A. Northrop, Congregational Secretary for Systematic Beneficence.



The new Secretary, who is spending his time in strengthening the foundations of our Congregational work, and in seeking to lay new and larger foundations for future work through our missionary societies, sends greeting to the latest formed of the six Societies, the Congregational Church-Building Society, the Capstone of our building. Its work puts the finishing touches upon our correlated work, as it does, also, upon the churches which it helps to build.

The American revision of Zech. 4:7, in its rendering of "headstone" by "topstone," negatives the suggestion of the cemetery, and bids us think of the Congregational Church-Building Society as very much alive. We are not to cry "Peace to its ashes," but "Grace to it," whose gracious ministry completes the building and invites to worship.

Our churches as buildings, housing our churches as organizations, are the outward and visible sign of the grace of God which has brought His people together for worship and for work. From these church buildings, through the church worshiping and serving therein, is to be wrought out the world's salvation.

The people of God ought to have the best conditions for service. The Sunday-schools, the public school, the college, the church, the preacher, the missionary, all need the church building for the completest development of the religious life; and since the practice of systematic and proportionate beneficence is a vital factor in that completest development, and is best taught in connection with the services of the Church, it is easy to see how closely it is related to the church building and the religious services that are offered therein.

Beneficent giving represents the offering of one's self. It goes to the bottom of one's Christian profession and gauges the reality of one's devotion. It has to do with the real man. In fact, it is inseparable from him. It is he under another form. It marks and measures and magnifies the consecrated life. The service of giving, the offering of money, belongs to the first principles of the gospel of Christ. Some thought of it must go into the beginning of a Christian character, if the completed structure is to reflect the mind of Christ.

It is with the hope that our churches and church buildings may become more and more dedicated to unselfish purposes for the kingdom of God, that we are agitating to-day the matter of systematic beneficence. It is felt that not alone for those who have money, but especially for those who are to have it, the doctrine of Christian stewardship should be kept in the foreground of our teaching because of its exceedingly important relation to any kind of prosperity.

Some systematic teaching and practicing of giving as a part of living, some special attention directed to it, some thorough unfolding of the principle of it to the younger generation—this is the thing attempted by the new movement, which, beginning some years ago with the National Council's Committee of Fifteen, has resulted recently in the appointment in their place of an Advisory Committee on Systematic Beneficence, representing all the Six Societies, and the appointment by them of a Secretary to represent them in the field. This movement cooperates with the work of the societies. It aims to provide the funds for the successful carrying on of our Congregational work so that when the Tituses and other distinguished brethren of the secretarial forces of the societies come to visit the churches, they will find that the bounty, the grace, which they are presumably in search of, has been made up beforehand, that it is in readiness, as a gift should be, and will not look as if it were being given under pressure. And in doing this, it boldly returns to the Pauline method of weekly offerings, involving some private or semi-private pledge. It would have the Christians of the twentieth century put by as weekly offerings what they can afford for the extension of the Kingdom. It lays much stress upon the previous resolve, prefers the impulse with a history behind it, and has faith that the man and his money will be increasingly at the service of his Master, as the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ begets and vitalizes the grace of giving.

In this way it is expected that the number of givers will be increased, that those who give will give more proportionately, that we shall be relieved from the frequent calls to give special gifts to certain of the societies, that a Forward Movement will be under way that will provide all the societies with all they need for the furthering of our work, and that will open the way for a still wider welcome to the missionaries and secretaries of the various organizations through which we Congregationalists do our share of God's work of saving the world.

In the Cyclone's Path.

Few people can understand the mighty force of the Titanic windstorms that occasionally sweep over the Western prairies. Two of our churches were caught in the powerful grip of this monster which left havoc in its path.

At Arcadia, Neb., we had a pretty and commodious church where the Rev. Henry A. Sherman, the pastor, was carrying forward the work.

In the night of July 9th a terrific tornado came booming across the plains and struck the town a fearful blow. The disaster brought great suffering and loss to the people; nearly every one lost from a few dollars up to several hundred dollars in value. The farmers of the neighborhood lost, some a part, others all of their crops by the hail that accompanied the storm. Our church, which had been the pride of the town, was wrenched from its foundation (five feet high) and flung diagonally to the ground, twisting it and unjointing it and leaving it a wreck. The belfry was broken away from the church, and the chimney fell through the roof, smashing stoves and chairs and floor. The building was insured against fire and lightning, but not against tornadoes. This throws a heavy burden upon the heroic people of this community, and, doubtless, many will be glad to lend a helping hand to enable them to replace their beautiful house of worship. They are already at work at it.

At Willow Lake, S. D., on Saturday evening, August 21st, the pastor of our church, Rev. Z. H. Smith, had just completed a sermon on the work of the Congregational Church-Building

ARCADIA, NEB.

Society. He was expecting to preach it the next day and take the annual offering for our work. But that night the furious cyclone, in all the majesty of its mysterious power, smote the city and left the church building a mass of kindling wood. The ravages of the storm in the town were very great. A large part of the city was left in complete ruin. All public buildings were destroyed or seriously injured, four churches were completely demolished and the five schoolhouses were swept away. Almost every member of our church was in the cyclone's track and suffered severely. The house of worship was so completely crushed and splintered into fragments that nothing remains standing but the floor, and that was moved off the foundations. Part of the broken roof remains just where it came crashing down upon the earth.

Willow Lake, South Dakota.

Around these ruins the stricken members gathered on the Sunday that followed and resolved to build at once. They dared not think of letting the work lag a single day. Two persons had just joined the church and seven others were waiting to be received into membership. The attendance was growing, and the influence for good was increasing. But having suffered such heavy losses, instead of taking a collection for some other struggling sister church, as was customary, it was felt that they could rely on the cordial sympathy and co-operation of sister churches all over the land to aid them in this hour of need. They will not be disappointed, nor will the brave band in Arcadia.

Three Pastors and Their Churches.

Minneapolis in the golden autumn is a very attractive city. A faint haze veils the atmosphere and the sunshine gilds it with a radiance that makes the pleasant streets more brilliant than usual. To a descendant of the Pilgrims, it is a matter of special interest that this is one of the Congregational strongholds, there being twenty-two churches of our order there. One of them is Bethany Congregational Church, in the northern part of the city. It is just now rejoicing in deliverance from some serious financial burdens. Good work has been done there in the fifteen years of its life, but like many another youth, it had its ups and downs; and the "downs" were very discouraging. It was situated among pleasant homes and had some splendid Christian people in its ranks, but it staggered under a load too heavy for it. We had helped it in former years and lately we came again at its cry of distress to give it another lift. The sagacious, consecrated and resolute pastor, Rev. Maurice B. Morris, was the one who engineered successfully the rescue. His long experience in the ministry, his success in other fields, his courage and fertility of resource and his persistence, made him just the leader needed for such an enterprise. He got the people of the church yoked in with the Church-Building Society for a mighty pull together, and success resulted. So one happy day they burned a mortgage that had been troubling them too long and sang the doxology. The church building cost about $3,600, and is well adapted to the needs of the community.

It seems a far cry from the city on the upper Mississippi to Prescott, Arizona, in the remote Southwest. Yet the ride is so interesting as to make the distance seem moderate. The route lies through Chicago and Kansas City, at which latter point the traveler boards a train on the Sante Fe line, which will carry him through Kansas, Southeastern Colorado, New Mexico and Arizona, through fertile farms and great stock ranches, and over mountain passes and through tunnels, and past Indian villages and across immense sand plains dotted with cactus and flanked by mountain ranges. Once arrived at Prescott, he finds a town of 6,000 people, the center of mining and stock raising industries, and with abundant confidence in its own future.

Here we have had a Congregational church for 23 years, and our grant of $500, made in 1882, helped to complete a house of worship which was sufficient for the time. But it was outgrown and unsuitable for the present need; and under the inspiring leadership of some sagacious men, the people took hold of the work of securing a new and beautiful sanctuary. With much enthusiasm and self-sacrifice they raised a large amount of money on the field and asked the Congregational Church-Building Society to extend a helping hand as in former years, and received an affirmative response. The result is the very attractive edifice shown above, constructed out of the white brick of that locality, which gives at a little distance the appearance of a marble church. It will seat 350 people and cost about $6,000. It is an architectural ornament to the town, and will win many people within its portals to hear "the glorious gospel of the blessed God."

Rev. Robert W. Rogers.

We congratulate Mr. Rogers, the young pastor of this church at this distant outpost, on the splendid opportunity it offers him for royal service to the people of that community. He is in the first year of his pastorate there and has won the confidence of his people and the attention of the city. With a loyal and earnest band of fellow-workers in this fine church-home, we look for a fruitful ministry there.

On our return trip from Arizona the traveler can, with little difficulty or delay, make a detour into the heart of Colorado, that Rocky Mountain State which has lately been attracting so much attention. Great are the attractions of that splendid commonwealth, with its stately and splendid mountain peaks, its fertile valleys, its vast sweep of prairie in the east, its mining camps two miles high, its triumphs of railroad construction, its brilliant cities and its wide-awake people.

REV. JAMES A. BECKER.

At Grand Junction we find a stirring town of 7,500 inhabitants, and a live church with a live pastor. They were not content to stagnate, nor to remain in quarters too cramped and unfit for their developing work. Things move in that part of the country. Progress is in the air. So under the inspiration of a noble discontent with what had ceased to give them a chance for the growing life of the church, they proceeded to push out for better things. Plans were drawn for improvement and enlargement of the old plant, so as to give practically a new church. Canvassers scoured the church and neighborhood for subscriptions. Everyone got interested, and purses opened up. Every now and then difficulties arose to hinder, but they are used to conquering obstacles out there. Steadily the work went on, till at last their completed new church stood fair and winsome before their eyes. Our aid enables them to sing a song of thanksgiving and we rejoice with them.

The pastor, Rev. James A. Becker, has been a zealous and inspiring leader in securing this new vantage ground. He has thus put this church in the way of greatly increased usefulness in that region. His field is wider than the city where he resides, as he has done good work on the lecture platform; but he will find no work so interesting and rewarding as that which he will do within the walls of this new sanctuary, where we hope a great blessing will attend his labors.

The Boon of a Parsonage.

A home for the pastor is often quite as essential to the prosperity of a church as the house of worship itself. Many new towns fill up so rapidly, and are crowded so full, that the minister, a newcomer, has no place to lay his head. Even when he finds a corner into which to squeeze himself, he has no place to which he may bring his family. When he succeeds, after much endeavor, perhaps a rude shack, with the winds whistling through the cracks; or a "dug-out"; or a basement; or a couple of rooms over a stable or a saloon, constitute his home. Such unseemly and unpleasant places have housed our ministers.

PLATTE VALLEY, DENVER, COLO., PARSONAGE.

The hardships and distress that have thus been caused, the sickness and sorrow that have resulted, the dishonor to the cause of Christ, whose messengers are put to such straits, our churches disapprove of. They are unwilling that any pastor be homeless if they can prevent it. So they keep sending us money for the parsonage fund. If they would send three times as much, it would bless three times as many. How much good is done by our parsonage loans is indicated by a letter from a grateful pastor in Montana, a brave woman who is shepherding one of our churches there. She writes:

"Enclosed is draft to be applied on our parsonage loan. I realize our great indebtedness to you every day as I enjoy the benefits of this pleasant home. If all your loans are doing as much good as this has, you have cause for great thankfulness, as well as those you help."

We give two illustrations of parsonages which we have recently helped to place in important communities in Colorado. One is at Platte Valley, Denver, which cost about $1,100, and is a cosy and comfortable home. The other is at Boulder, where the State University is located, and which requires a larger and more commodious building. This is an exceptionally attractive home and cost about $4,500, in addition to the land. Fortunate is the pastor who is blessed with such a beautiful home.

PAID TO PARSONAGES.

List of appropriations paid as loans to aid in building parsonages for Congregational Churches. These loans are secured by a first mortgage on the property, and are paid to the Society in installments; the annual sums so paid vary according to the amount of the loan. When the payments thus made are equal to the amount of the mortgage, the obligation of the church is to be cancelled, and the parsonage becomes the property of the church free from all debts.

CORRECTIONS.—In the October number of the QUARTERLY, on page 214 under receipts from California, Suisun S.S. should read 45 cents and not $1.45. Also on page 222, under parsonage building from Massachusetts, is an item of $200 from the Mass. and R. I. W.H.M.A. On the next page the same item appears under Rhode Island, as it was intended in this way to give both States credit for it. Only one amount of $200 was received. Hereafter the amount will be entered under one State and a reference to the same will be made under the other. In the January, 1904, QUARTERLY, on page 45, Rumford Point, Me., should read $238 instead of $2.38. Also on the same page Park Ridge, Ia., should read 75 cents and not $1.75. In the July, 1904, QUARTERLY, on page 157 under parsonage building, Dixon, Ill.. should read $33.75 instead of $3.75. In the April, 1904, QUARTERLY, on page 92, add this item to Massachusetts: Rockland, $10.
